Stephanie Nadi Olson Bio:

Stephanie Nadi Olson is a technology Founder, innovator, and disruptor, aiming to change the world's perspective on building a more thoughtful and inclusive society. Nadi Olson, a former advertising executive with companies including Microsoft and AOL, founded We Are Rosie in 2018, scaled the platform to 40,000 marketers around the globe, and eventually sold the majority of her company to Private Equity. She was the company's CEO from 2018 to 2022, overseeing its rapid growth.

She is also a Palestinian-American, the daughter of a Nakba survivor, and a fierce advocate for dignity and freedom for all Palestinians.

Nadi Olson was inducted into the American Advertising Federation's Advertising Hall of Achievement in 2023, was named one of Atlanta Magazine's 2022 Women Making a Mark and is an EY Entrepreneur Of The Year® 2022 Southeast Award winner as well as one of Atlanta Business Chronicle's Most Admired CEOs. In 2021, she was named to the EY Entrepreneurial Winning Women class. In addition, Olson was named AdAge Visionary of the Year 2020, was recognized by Adweek in the 2020 Creative 100, was named World Changing Woman 2020 by Conscious Company, and was awarded Global Entrepreneur of the Year 2019 by the Stevie Awards.

Potential quote for press (please advise if you would like it edited):

In order to determine the best possible path forward for Palestinians and the healthcare system and infrastructure in Palestine, we must reimagine what a rebuilding process can and should look like. This is a monumental task, essentially rebuilding from the ground up, during continued attacks on the people and infrastructure in Gaza. The work ahead of us will require collaboration between governments, NGOs, medical institutions, peacemakers, universities, and beyond. Together, at the 3rd Conference of the Global Health Initiative, we will push this agenda forward, welcome in thought leaders and experts from across the globe, and move closer to a healthcare system for Gazans that aligns with the human right to care every person on earth deserves.